

SEN Primary Teacher (ASC) Vacancy

Position: SEN Primary Teacher (ASC)
Contract: Full time – Permanent
Start date: August 2024
Location: Harmondsworth

Applications are invited for the SEN Primary Teacher position at Landon Harmondsworth School. The main focus of the school will be to provide a bespoke educational provision for pupils with Autism in KS1 and KS2. It plans to start in September 2024 with 40 students but has ambitions to create a school of scale. The provision will be for severe learning difficulty students, therefore the quality of staff, services and facilities will reflect this. The school will have a full range of therapeutic in-house interventions outside of the classroom and will incorporate the very best facilities for their students. The needs of students are always paramount in making decisions to provide a safe and caring environment for each child to achieve their maximum potential.

The school is looking to recruit a SEN Primary Teacher who recognises and embraces this exciting opportunity to develop a vision, mission and values for this new community. The candidate will be excited about joining a team of fellow specialist educators to develop and implement an educational programme from the start. This is a role for some that enjoys taking the initiative to set in place the right procedures and processes and make their own contribution towards building the structure of the school.

We are interested in talking to teachers that are motivated to grow and consider progressing their career into leadership positions. Landon Education plans to open more school space in the future and we will look internally for future leaders.

Your skills and experience will include:

- Experienced and qualified to teach autistic children .
- Passion for contributing to curriculum development and its classroom implementation
- Practitioner and believer in the central role of CPD
- Be able to confidently apply best, research led educational practice
- Ambitious, energetic and independent minded
- Comfortable with ambiguity but able to put policies and procedures in place to provide certainty and structure to the community
- Experience with the Equals curriculum and SCERTS model will be an advantage

The successful candidate will receive a competitive salary according to their experience and skill sets. There is also a flexible benefits package offered. Professional development will be provided on an ongoing basis to support the challenges of the position.

If you feel excited by this opportunity to utilize everything that you have learned and experienced to create a new school, then please apply to info@landonschool.co.uk with your C.V and cover letter that explains your motivation and what you can offer to this project.
